COURSE OBJECTIVES

INCIRI is happy to announce the launching of a new value addition course on "Scientific Documentation".

This course will be highly useful and essential for the students of Professional Courses, Faculty, Researchers and Scientific community.

The main emphasis of this course will be on the development of documentation skills for organising the flow of scientific thoughts. This course will utilize the open source software MikTeX.

This software is universal and is being used by the students of Under-Graduate and Graduate programs of Universities in the US and other countries as well. Also it is useful for students and researchers to submit term papers, reports, assignments, project summaries, dissertation, theses and submission of research papers for publication in Research Journals in the TEX format.

This course is more practice oriented. Students intending to pursue higher education abroad would find their study comfortable, if they acquire working skills in MikTeX.
